

SAN DIEGO STATE UNIVERSITY

SDSU GUARDIAN SCHOLARS

Playwrights Project

30th year

Where Stories Take the Stage

SDSU School of Theatre, Television, and Film

The James Irvine Foundation

vibrant culture vibrant city

Commission for Arts and Culture City of San Diego

An Anonymous Foundation

Telling Stories: Students in Transition

San Diego State University
Experimental Theatre

VIP Night:
Thur, March 26, 2015:
6:30 p.m. Reception
7:30 p.m. Performance

Reservations Required:
Call Lizzie
at (858) 384-2970
write@playwrightsproject.org

Please RSVP by
March 16, 2015
Some adult themes.
Recommended for ages 16+

Sisters in the System

Written by Tori Rice
Directed by Peter Cirino

Student actors from SDSU's School of Theatre, Television, and Film and SDSU's Guardian Scholars work alongside faculty and local theatre professionals to present a performance of an experimental new play developed in Playwrights Project's Telling Stories program.

Playwrights Project is a nonprofit corporation advancing literacy, creativity and communication by empowering individuals to voice their stories through playwriting programs and theatre productions.

The SDSU School of Theatre, Television, and Film provides high quality education for undergraduate and graduate students that emphasizes excellence in the arts and technology, grounded in conceptual and historical foundations.

The SDSU Guardian Scholars Program assists previous foster youth, wards of the court, students under legal guardianship, and unaccompanied homeless youth by providing a comprehensive, highly supportive program to help them earn a college degree.

Immerse yourself in theatre along with two girls navigating juvenile court. The complexity, confusion, and conflicts are almost comical.

Photo by Ken Jacques