A modern morality play for youth and adults

Lifted

Written by Annie Weisman Macomber

Directed by D. Candis Paule

Todd is a smart, thoughtful teenager. He has loving parents, a knack for rapping, and alas, a "teen brain." Todd is persuaded to steal merchandise from the big box store where he works. When Todd's mother, Luella, is blamed for the theft, Todd confesses. Although the store is lenient, Luella is not. Her response lifts Todd to a new level of understanding.

Annie Weisman Macomber is a Los Angeles dramatist who works in theatre and television. Best known for her plays Be Aggressive (premiered at La Jolla Playhouse) and Hold Please (The Old Globe), she is a staff writer for the television series Heartland. Annie discovered her talent for dramatic writing as a teenager with Playwrights Project.
