Playwrights Project

Playwrights Project is a nonprofit arts education organization serving San Diego County. Our mission is to advance literacy, creativity and communication by empowering individuals to voice their stories through playwriting programs and theatre productions.

We teach playwriting in the schools... helping children of all backgrounds discover their own unique voices, and we nurture next-generation playwrights through professional productions for the general public and school groups.

Since its founding by Deborah Salzer in 1985, Playwrights Project's professional theater productions and lively, standards-based teaching have consistently won
